GALLERY SUBMISSIONS

The Centennial Theatre offers artists the opportunity to exhibit two-dimensional artwork in the lobby.

The commission on art sales is 15%.

The artist must provide a list of all artwork, including the title, size, medium and value. For insurance purposes, this must be received before the installation.

Depending on the size of the work, space is available for up to 24 pieces.

Exhibits are three to four months in length, between January and December. Artwork should be appropriate for all audiences.

The Centennial Theatre is not open daily to the public; it is open only to ticket holding patrons one hour before a performance and during the intermission. The Centennial Theatre cannot offer an opening reception, however, an “Artist in Attendance” afternoon may be arranged depending on Theatre availability.

Exhibitors should prepare an “artist’s profile” or a “bio” and jpeg images of some of the exhibited work for the Centennial Theatre’s web site. A brief write up about the exhibit and a link to the artist’s web site may also be included.

It is the artist’s responsibility to ensure all works displayed are suitable for exhibition. All works must be properly framed or stretched with finished sides and wired for hanging. Large work that is framed behind glass is not suitable for hanging due to weight restrictions and lighting glare. The Centennial Theatre reserves the right to withhold from the exhibition any work not appropriately prepared for display and/or work found unsuitable for exhibition.

Artists may not be present during the hanging.

To be considered for exhibition please submit the following:

1. At least 15 jpegs or photographs, or a web link to an online portfolio.
2. A list of artwork for the exhibition, indicating the name, medium, sizes and date of completion.
3. Artist’s statement and Bio, with contact information.
4. A self-addressed, stamped envelope for return of any submitted photographs.
